2. All sod areas are considered ground under repair.
3. Always use cart paths where provided, especially near tees and greens, and without exception on par 3 holes.
4. Planted beds are part of the course, play the ball as it lies.
5. Residential roadways, property boundary fences and the island main road are considered out-of-bounds.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

1. All yardages on sprinkler heads are measured to the center of the green.
2. Thank you for replacing all divots, raking bunkers and repairing ball marks.
3. Proper golf attire is required at all times.

When Using This Book: Sprinkler heads are measured to the center of the green and are indicated throughout with a white dot (○). Distances to landing areas or hazards are measured from the permanent markers to the indicated area.

PAR 4

This par 4 offers a generous fairway, well suited to accommodate any first-tee jitters.

The degree of difficulty increases, however, as you approach the green. A wastebunker is strategically positioned to protect the right side, from the furthest reaches of the landing area all the way to the putting surface.

PAR 3

This par 3 shares an elongated double green with the par-5 10th hole. To reach this spacious but tantalizing green, it is necessary to hit over a saltwater lagoon. With the prevailing easterly winds, a collection of bunkers closely guard the only safe passage.

PAR 4

This dogleg right, which measures 438 yards, is the longest par 4 on the course. The green is shielded by a wastebunker on the right and native vegetation to the left. A well-executed blend of distance and accuracy is required.

A looming wastebunker lines the right side of the fairway on this 440-yard par 4. A strong tee shot will carry the wastebunker and bound down the right side of the fairway. This will give you the best angle into the green. However, be cautious of the deep bunker that guards the whole left front side of this elevated green.

The prudent play is to position a long iron or a fairway wood to the tight fairway and execute the remaining short shot to the green. Either way, be sure to avoid the very deep bunker that protects the front center of the green.

PAR 3

This distinctive par 3 is aesthetically pleasing yet hazardous with a large lake that covers nearly all 210 yards of this hole. The large green sits low on the water. Despite its length, the premium here is very much on placement.

You should favor the right side of the fairway to open up a better approach angle to the green. Be wary of three bunkers strategically positioned to the left of the green. Standing on the green, you will be able to appreciate the beauty of the clubhouse and vistas of the Caribbean Sea.

PAR 5

With a natural stream bordering nearly the entire left side of the hole and a lagoon crossing the fairway in front of the approach, accurate execution is a necessity. This hole plays into the prevailing wind, giving you one more obstacle to overcome. The undulating double green is carved into a seaside dune.

With the wind at your back, the longest par 3 does not play to its full yardage, but a potpourri of bunkers adds to its visual intimidation. A saltwater lagoon runs down the left side of the hole and leads to a deep, undulating green.

This par 4 plays across a pristine wetland area, and you need to pay particular attention to the wastebunker on the inside of the fairway and the numerous bunkers guarding the elevated green. There are three distinct levels to the green, which means a multitude of pin placements and thus a variety of yardages.

Natural features frame and define this medium-length par 5. A rock outcropping crosses the fairway and separates the elevated approach and green. A bunker, perched precariously front and center, separates the right and left pin placement. The green is undulating and shallow, so choose your approach carefully.

This straight and enticing par 4 offers plenty of room down the fairway, but make sure you prepare for your approach shot into the green. The left side of the green and approach lie on the edge of a saltwater lagoon while the back, right pin placement is guarded by a shallow greenside bunker.

This downhill, dogleg-left par 4 is unforgettable. The fairway provides a spectacular view of some of the holes in the saltwater marsh and the right-to-left green is perched on a peninsula.
